U. S. TO END MINE STRIKE QUICKLY

Shawmut, Pa., Aug. 8 (AP)—The Federal government drove forward a double-barreled action today to end the Pennsylvania bituminous coal strike.

Pressure was brought to end the rift between union leaders at Lehighvale on methods of reaching a truce to put some 60,000 striking miners back to work and an investigation was ordered into charges of Communist agitation.

Simultaneously a showdown was imminent between spokesmen for the miners—the regular action favoring an immediate return to work under President Roosevelt's trustees—and another charge "rickety" by their national and district leaders.

General Hugh S. Johnson, recovery administrator, ordered Edward F. McGarry, his assistant administrator for labor, to the coal region to call upon the workers to accept the terms offered in Washington by operators and union leaders.

Agents of U. S. Attorney Lloyd W. Byers worked to trace the sources of pamphlets urging the miners not to accept the truce. Officials of the United Mine Workers of America attributed the literature to "Red agitators."

Meanwhile most of the mines remain closed. National authorities are still equipped near Lehighvale and Lehigh, Pa., where more than 6,000 returned to work in adjoining fields yesterday.

Another strike of 10,000 miners in the Reading district of eastern Pennsylvania also drew national attention. Lehighvale, chairman of the industrial advisory committee, said the new constitution board will attempt to mediate.

In Philadelphia a call for a general strike of the trade helpers of the cleaning and dyeing industry was issued. Leaders estimate 2000 will join the walkout.

Threatened BETTY DOWNES

JAMES DOWNES

Betty Downes, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James Downes, was held in custody at the Philadelphia, guarded from kidnappers at a New Hampshire camp.

KIDNAPER FAILS JURY HEARS TO SEE DOWNES O'CONNELLS

Philadelphia, Aug. 8 (AP)—The writer of the letter who threatened to kidnap still Betty Downes, 15, now in a New Hampshire camp, failed to keep an appointment with her father today to get the $15,000 demanded as the price for her safety.

James R. Downes, chief of transportation of the Pennsylvania railroad, was at the building designated by the letter writer, but the kidnaper did not put in an appearance before 8:30 A. M., the appointed time. Police were carefully revealed.

The camp where the girl is staying at North Sutton, N. H., has been under guard since last Saturday when Downes received the threatening letter.

Lindberghs Wait for Good Weather

Amagessalik, Greenland, Aug. 8 (IN)—Col. and Mrs. Charles A. Lindbergh, making a survey of North Atlantic aerial routes in anticipation of establishment of transatlantic commercial air service, were here for favorable weather today before proceeding to the next stage of their flight.

They plan to go to Jallahaab, where they will refuel before proceeding to Rockville, Iceland.

Dowd Seeks to Reinstate Five

Reinstatement of the five women laundry workers at City Hospital was sought today in an order of City Councilman John F. Dowd, referred to the hospital trustees by the council. Dowd charged that the five women, two of whom are widows, were discharged from their jobs as a measure of economy.

French Police Fail to Trace Mitchell

Paris, Aug. 8 (IN)—The French police have failed to find a trace of Henry F. Mitchell, young New York broker sought by American authorities for a clue to the murder of Henry F. Sarnoff, railway official, the press was told today. Mitchell was sought for information regarding the slain New York business executive, in which it was thought might reveal a motive for the murder.

WOMAN 'POISON' DOCTOR HELD

Greenwood, Miss., Aug. 8 (AP)—Dr. Ruth Dean, 35-year-old physician, was held in jail today on a murder charge in connection with the death of Dr. Preston Kennedy, her former associate in Greenwood.

A warrant for her arrest was sworn out by Dist. Atty. A. A. Anderson after it had been charged Dr. Kennedy died from poison on her arrest. Dr. Dean simply said, "Well, I'm sorry."

Dr. Kennedy became ill last week in Jackson while en route to visit his parents, Dr. and Mrs. H. H. Stoney, at Pinola, Miss.

He died Sunday. Attending physician officers reported obtaining a death bed at tenet and the arrest of Dr. Dean followed.

Dr. Dean for a long time was a member of Dr. Kennedy's clinic in Greenwood. About six months ago she resigned to take up special study in New York.

U. S. Guns Stolen for Cuban Rebels

Athens, Ga., Aug. 8 (AP)—Four men who confessed they took part in a venture for running guns stolen from the University of Georgia military department to Florida for sale to "Cuban rebels" will give a hearing August 14. Six Browning machine guns, ammunition, several 50-shot automatic rifles, some 20-shot automatic rifles and three small caliber target rifles were taken from the arsenal June 13 and 27. The confessions followed weeks of inquiry.

Five Face Brockton Court in Auto Theft

Brockton, Aug. 8—Five youths will be arraigned here today charged with using an auto without authority. They were arrested last night after they narrowly escaped death when the auto plunged down an embankment.

They gave their names as William Tierney, 21, of Montello, Wis.; William Tierney, 15, of Haverly, Mass.; William Tierney, 15, of Haverly, Mass.; William Tierney, 15, of Haverly, Mass.; and William Tierney, 15, of Haverly, Mass.

Woodin to Visit Roosevelt at Home

Hyde Park, N. Y., Aug. 8—President Roosevelt expects here that Secretary of the Treasury Woodin is coming to the summer White House tomorrow.

The chief executive desired, however, that Woodin's visit be confidential. He said the treasury secretary was scheduled to come last week, but was prevented by illness from doing so.

Berlin, Aug. 8—The Hitler government in diplomatic language has told Great Britain and France to mind their own business in the "back fence war" of Austria and Germany.

French Ambassador Francois-Poncet and British Charge d'Affaires Newton called at the foreign office and protested German propaganda bombardments of Austria by the German press and by German broadcast from Bavaria, abusing Austria's Chancellor Dollfuss as a government as violations of the Versailles treaty, the Locarno agreement and the four-power peace pact of England, France, Germany and Italy.

The German official reply states the Reich had violated no treaties and that the Franco-British demand was "inadmissible."

Real D. A. R. Living in S. Carolina

Columbia, S. C., Aug. 8—Revolutionary War payroll records here enabled a 75-year-old Georgia woman to prove her claim to being one of the few "real daughters" of the American Revolution still living. She has been found to be a daughter of a South Carolina soldier in the War of Independence living in Georgia.

The name of the father was given as Lacon Brown from Dodge County, Georgia. The woman revealed Brown was paid five pounds 15 shillings for duty with the South Carolina militia in 1782.

The woman whose given name is Martha had documents to prove Lacon Brown was her father and the records confirmed her proof to being a "real daughter" of the Revolution. She was born in 1858.

JEKISS-MAN' LONE VISITOR AT COSTELLO HOME

Bill's Friend TELLS FINDING THERE

By WIN BROOKS

and taunted during a severe examination by Asst. Dist. Atty. Charles A. Green, and finally yielded to admit that he was positively sure of only two occasions when he saw Costello mixing the poisons, but he could not be shaken in his claim that Costello himself told him that the cyanide, the other oxide was.

Trial resumed following the announcement of Francis E. Butler, defense attorney, that Jessie will be recalled to the witness stand in rebuttal, probably as the last witness in the case—and that if she's acquitted she may go on the loose.

Picture of Poison Death Is Barred

Young Fyle took the stand after the state had blocked an attempt by the defense to introduce evidence that Bill Costello, two weeks before he died, witnessed a motion picture, "Poisoned Deeds," where murder was done by cyanide.

Albert H. Dow, black-jowled manager of the Strand Theater in Peabody, took the stand and testified that picture was shown at his peabody on Feb. 2, but he got no other Asst. Dist. Atty. Charles A. Green asked a bench conference with Judge Foster, and at its conclusion Dow was dismissed without further questioning.

Jessie's brother, wearing a plaid tie for the Fyles, continually stared at his sister as she testified under re-examination of Kaffer that her husband used cyanide and picric to clean the boiler.

"Three or four times in the last two or four years, when I had seen Costello mixing two ingredients,"

"Do you know what he was mixing?"

"Cyanide and oxalic acid," he promptly replied.

Asked how he knew, he said Costello told him Mrs. Costello never gave him any.

Quinn as frank as any school-boy, young Andy looked startled when Green, who cross-examined him, accused him of making friends. Andy replied with a grin that he might have made a few but that it was because he found the water cup on the witness stand empty.

He said the long list of Costello's peculiar actions cited by the defense in his claim that he was a suicide, Andy added one more vivid picture of the victim pacing the floor of his home with the body of his newly dead baby, "Little Billy," in his arms.

"My God, what have I done to deserve all this?" he quipped coquettishly.

Under cross-examination he admitted having first refused to talk to state detectives at the beginning of the investigation of Costello's death, but he denied it was because he didn't know what to say and wanted to "check up."

Brother Revealed as Not Living With Wife

He had the temper in even stricter control than his father did yesterday, but often his annoyance was manifest in the way he answered with the tone of his voice.

Twice as Green pressed him he said "I swore to tell nothing but the truth." His answers contained a respectful "sir." He seemed happy on what seemed a personal question asked if his sister's marriage with Costello had been happy—he replied:

"I wish my own had been half as happy."

It was brought out that he is not living with his wife.

The first time he saw Costello mixing cyanide and oxalic was five or six years ago, he said, in his garage. He recalled another time on which he could put no approximate date when Costello mixed things in the cellar he "look for granted" were cyanide and oxalic.

Green continually pressed him for exact dates and locations and, once, his voice raised not a bit, he asked the prosecutor:

"Can I make it any clearer to you, sir?"

He admitted he had been trying to "think of things which might help his sister in her predicament" and admitted it was a grin.

"That's far enough," he said.

Jessie sat considerable "lick" out of his snarers and when he left the stand and went to his chair he rested his hand on her arm for just a fraction of a second, a gesture of brotherly affection.

John J. Fitzpatrick, assistant cashier of the Worcester National Bank of Peabody, produced bank records which even displayed some hesitancy in interpreting, but the sum and substance of his testimony was that Bill Costello had a loan of $200 from the bank on Jan. 24, the note endorsed by Dr. Harris S. Peabody, and the same was paid by Peabody on April 24.

Five weeks after Costello's death, Costello had another loan on Jan. 24, for $200, the note endorsed by Dr. Harris S. Peabody, and the same was paid by Peabody on April 24.

buoyant in her stride and her face wreathed in a wide smile, Mrs. Jessie B. Costello ran the gauntlet of the largest crowd of thrill-seekers since her trial began. Of all ages, Jessie's "fans" surged against police lines as the widow left the courthouse for jail. Note the awe-stricken expression on some of the faces, and the small girl hand-clapping the widow. A move to bar children from the courthouse throng seems to have gotten exactly no place at all.

12-Hour Standee First in Court

Salem, Aug. 8.—All records for early standing in line to obtain admittance to the Costello trial were broken today when it was learned that one man had been on hand since 9:20 last night.

He "rived in an automobile and took up a position in front of the courthouse, with the result he was the first admitted at the opening of the doors."

"The testimony as it came out left an altogether wrong impression and Mrs. Costello will explain it. It is a very simple explanation. The breadbasket came from a downtown hotel and Mrs. Costello gave it to Warren of the suggestion that there might be some things she wanted done up in preparation for the wake."

There are several other points raised by Kaffer today and Costello gave it to Warren of the suggestion that there might be some things she wanted done up in preparation for the wake."

It is practically assured that the smiling widow by virtue of a cyanide capsule will stand up for a suicide tour if she is acquitted.

Lee Riley and Al Sheehan continued with Kaffer today and sought an option of a theatrical contract calling for a tour of eight to ten weeks at more than $5000 a week. The nation wants to see Jessie, they said, and he ready to pay for the privilege. Whatever person's feelings Jessie may have about the matter, it is difficult to see how she could afford to refuse such an offer.

Always keeping in mind that she doesn't stand up before one of those invitation only, and very select audiences, which are guests of the state at executions.

Jessie's trial has speeded up, the defense is going somewhere in a hurry and Jessie is headed in quickstep time for her freedom or her death. Jessie hasn't long to wait before she leaves her state re-buttal witnesses remains to be seen but once again they're predicting a Saturday verdict.

Brookline Police Vets Promoted

Sergeant John P. Donovan and Asst. William J. Brooks, both of whom today were promoted to the rank of lieutenant by vote of the board of selectmen. Both have served commendations for notable service and both are veterans of the department.

Husband Dares Wifely Ire to Squeeze in Salem Court

Salem Courthouse, Aug. 8.—One man got into the Costello trial today, but he will probably regret it when he gets home, for he left his wife behind him. The police announced there was room for only 20 more spectators and 10 had been admitted. Next in line were a married couple. "Which one is going in?" asked Patrolman O'Neill. "I'll go," said the husband and he hurried into the building leaving his wife outside.

FIRE ESBROYS ONTARIO BLOCK

Cornwall, Ont., Aug. 8.—Fire destroyed an entire block of buildings in the business section here with loss estimated at near $1,000,000.

Thirty-one business places were burned to the ground, eight homes were destroyed and at least 15 apartments were demolished when flames raged through supporting stores underneath.

Cornwall firemen fought the blaze for five hours, with the aid of re-enforcements from Ottawa and Montreal. At one time the whole city seemed threatened with destruction.

Deputy Fire Chief Coo Moore and three firemen were overcome by smoke, but returned to their posts after receiving first aid.

The fire started shortly after midnight behind a garage on Pitt st. A west wind spread it rapidly.

Gen. Feng in Peace Pact With Peiping

Peiping, Aug. 8 (AP).—Representative of the independent Gen. Feng Yui-tung and the national government signed a peace pact today at Kailuan, where Feng directed his campaign to recover "China's lost provinces" from Japan.

A national government appointee, Gen. Sung Chai-Yuan will become governor of Chahar Province, east of Feng's most recent operations, and the government will be reorganized.

2 Autoists Guilty in Newburyport

Newburyport, Aug. 8.—Pleading guilty to operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor, Albert P. Geary, 48, John M. O'Neill, 35, and Fred A. Lavrin, 18, of Northbury, were found guilty by Judge Oscar H. Nelson in the District Court yesterday. He was discharged on a complaint of drunkenness.

Fred A. Lavrin, 18, of Northbury, was charged with driving a car and the case was put off to the 21st day of August, when it was announced he would pay a fine of $10 or be before that date.

Anyway, the general opinion is that he went to Harvard. So wear your gas mask to the next Yale game.

No harm was done. The Wall Street broker is still raking in his profits and slugging "You Made Me Cry, but You Didn't Break My Heart."

The whole incident isn't important. Nothing is important to the East unless Clarence Darrow packs his box in his brief case and announces he is counsel for the defendant.

COUNCIL TO ACT ON APPOINTEES

Three appointments to major State posts are due for consideration of the council when Gov. E. C. Dwyer returns to the State House tomorrow after an extended week-end at his home in Westfield.

Dr. Henry D. Chadwick is slated to succeed Dr. George H. Ricketts as commissioner of public health; Richard Gray is appointed to take the place of Frank A. Brooks, chairman of the parole board, and Charles F. Hurdon is due for confirmation as director of the division of animal industry, to succeed Evan F. Richardson.

There is a possibility of the governor returning to his office some time today in order that he might prepare additional appointments for consideration of the council at its meeting tomorrow.

Welsh Festival Opens

Wrentham, W. Va., Aug. 8 (AP).—The Welsh Elated, annual festival opened today with a production of the miracle play, "Every Man." The large audience included many Welshmen from Canada, the United States and Latin America.

Q—Was there any reason you didn't go further?

A—No.

Q—Did you know anything?

A—No.

Q—Did you get a look at it?

A—Yes.

Q—Was it something in a can? I asked him what it was and he said cyanide of potassium and oxalic acid.

Q—What did he have there?

A—He had an old can in which he was mixing it, and was pouring the oxalic acid out of a glass.

Q—Did you see anything else?

A—No.

Q—What did the contents of the can look like?

A—No.

Q—Did he have anything else in it?

A—No.

Q—You were watching him?

A—Yes.

Q—But all you observed was him pouring from a jar into a can and stirring it and the fact that it was cyanide and oxalic acid?

Q—Was anyone else there?

A—No.

Q—Did you ever tell anyone else about it after Bill died?

A—No.

Q—I told it in the grand jury in Newburyport.

Q—You never told it in anyone else until you told the grand jury in Newburyport?

A—No.

Q—Where was the next occasion?

A—In the car.

Q—What was the date?

A—It was definite as to the date of time of day.

Q—It was four or five years ago?

A—I wouldn't say.

Q—Did you ever see the man in the car?

A—No.

Q—When did you see him?

A—No.

Q—You said you first saw him in the garage pouring oxalic acid from a jar. When was the first time after that?

A—No.

Q—When was the second time?

A—No.

Q—You wouldn't want to tell me the specific date, sir?

A—No.

Q—Did you put on the first, if there was any reason?

A—No.

Q—You can't recall whether it was a month or more after that?

Q—Do you think it unusual for a father to act that way? A—No.

Q—After the death of the child Bill had crept into the house? A—Yes.

Q—Where was the picture? A—I could not say.

Q—Where were the pictures? A—Two in the living room and one upstairs.

Q—It isn't unusual, having pictures of a child around, is it? A—No.

Yes, on January 25, a loan of $250

Q—Was it endorsed? A—Yes, by Dr. Emery.

Q—Was it paid? A—Yes, on the 26th of April.

Q—Who paid it? A—The endorser.

Fitzpatrick declared that Capt. Costello was given a loan of $250 on January 25. The loan was secured by a savings department book which was sold on May 10 to pay the loan. When Costello died, he was indebted to the bank for a total of $250. Fitzpatrick testified under cross-examination by Green, Fitzpatrick declared that four occasions, Capt. Costello endorsed notes for his brother, John J. Costello, Jr., and Andrew Pyff, Jr.

By agreement between the prosecution and defense counsel, after was permitted to read to the jury records which showed that there was a first mortgage of $500 on the Fay ave. home and a second mortgage of $250, with an interest rate of 12 per cent. William J. Costello was the mortgagee in both transactions. There had been no payments on the principle or either mortgage.

Young Costello was declared at 24 after Chief Defense Counsel Clark announced that he would put Dr. Alexander O. Costello, New York toxicologist, on the stand when not convenient.

Newburyport Loan Approved by State

Newburyport, Aug. 8.—Notice that the loan of $10,000 for relief work, passed by the city council recently had been approved by the state authorities has been received by Mayor Gayden W. Morrill. The money is expected to arrive here within a few days.

Approval of the loan enables all relief departments to function until the end of the fiscal year.

Mayor Morrill intends also to use a portion of it in reducing the tax rate of the city. The city has five years to pay the loan.

Britain Names New Envoy to Moscow

Moscow, Aug. 8.—(AP)—The British government has appointed Viscount Chilston as its ambassador at Moscow in succession to the late Sir Edmund Dwyer. The Soviet government has found Lord Chilston persona grata.

New envoy is expected in September when, for the first time since March 20, Britain will be represented by a full-fledged ambassador here.

YOUNG FAIRBAIRNS IN BRITISH FILM

London Company Signs Star; Lili Damita Also Given Contract in England

By HERBERT PARSONS

Los Angeles, Aug. 8.—American stars who go to London for a vacation find themselves busy making a picture before they know it. British film producers have taken advantage of the presence of almost every prominent Hollywood player to visit their shores lately. Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., recuperating from his recent serious illness, is the latest who has gone to England to rest and remained to work.

A cable from a friend tips me off to the fact that Young Doug has just signed with the London company, which is producing a picture for Fox.

There is also a rumor that Lili Damita, who was in the "Cavalier" with Young Doug, has been signed by the London company. This is also a rumor, but it is a very interesting one. The London company is a very important one in the British film industry. It has produced many of the best British films of the last few years. It is now producing a picture for Fox, which is a very important one in the American film industry.

Speaking of Doug, Mr. Count Alfredo Carpena and William Feltz, both of whom have brought back with him last time he dropped in on our fair film company, called the Seven Seas Corporation. Carpena is a former cup team, Feltz a champion Olympic bobber. Their first production will be "Cane Fire," by James Bond. This is a picture which is being made in the South Seas. It is a picture which is being made in the South Seas. It is a picture which is being made in the South Seas.

Dorothy Wilson Signs
Dorothy Wilson and Robert Armstrong have been signed by Columbia for "Above the Clouds." Richard Cromwell has previously announced. Studio secured the town Saturday to film a comedy. Team of Wilson and Cromwell scored in "Age of Consent" to be a good bet to result there.

Preisser Sisters for Follies
In the Ziegfeld Follies, planned as a major musical production for this coming season, Cherry and June Preisser are to be featured. The announcement brings out an odd coincidence.

One of Ziegfeld's last trips was to go to the Coast to see his Billie Burke in "The Vagabond." In town with the Preissers, playing vaudeville, they asked Ziegfeld to catch their act. He did, and going backstage, told them he wanted them for his next Follies. Then death stepped in.

Since that time the sisters have been a national hit. They act attracted attention of other producers who will use them in the new Follies, and who did not know of Ziegfeld's own troupe plan.

Cherry and June, now with Keith's "The Girl in the Red Velvet," after all.

Her New Love JANE COWL IS SUPERB IN "CAMILLE"

Cast of Excellence Surrounds Star in Revival of Classic at Tremont Premiere

By HERBERT PARSONS

Into the home of her childhood Jane Cowl last night brought her "Camille." It was her first appearance in the old home town in the role that every great actress, some time or other in her career, has wished to play. A Jane Cowl visit is always an event, but there was even richer cordials and a current welcome. It was, distinctly and distinctively a big evening.

Equally so as an artistic triumph. And a proper one, too, only so, at the Tremont theater, back in the old home town.

Such is the Cowl method of translation of the old into terms of the new. This method more than makes up for the fact that the Cowl method is not a new one.

Fleet of Beautiful Craft at Marblehead

We digress . . . after lunch we boarded the epic and spar launch of the Hotel Rockmere, loaned by the genial host of the hotel, Ray Brackett, and sailed out among the racers off Marblehead Rock . . . like gulls skimming over the waves the white crested fliers by dipping into the choppy seas and riding the crests and gracefully as birds, a rival swift . . . well-known skippers were disguised by slickers and sweaters. The Things we know so well in the ballroom were almost unrecognizable in slicks and sweaters as they sat at the rudder or manipulated the sails . . . perfect racing weather put everyone on their mettle and competition was keen . . . let the best judge of win and sail win!

After the starting gun we took it leisurely around the harbor, looking over the beautiful craft which had sailed in the week. . . Herbert Sears' Constellation was moored to her buoy a sleek black shape with golden scroll on her bow, a comet indeed in her world.

Three jolly tars were enjoying life on a shining launch, the Showboat, a sturdy craft that must carry her owner's untold treasures far and near.

Like a watchful greyhound the coast guard kept an ever watchful eye on activities at sea and they slipped in and out of the harbor like a faithful watchdog on the alert for signs of danger.

Even the kiddies made a day of it and the brutal beach races among the youngsters was amusing and very interesting. . . these little skippers, sometimes not over ten years of age map out their course and feel their winds with all the intensity of their elders. . . Mr. Herreshoff, the father of the brutal beach boats (we believe he designed the first one ever used around here) was sailing about watching his brain children with zeal and keen interest!

A the yacht clubs things were very gay indeed... there was a large crowd at the Eastern for lunch and the verandas of the Corinthian were packed with spectators all the afternoon. Many dances and dinners will be given this week for the yachtsmen and their visitors.

We were listening in one night on the radio when we heard a woman's voice singing some certain songs that lived, others that died almost as soon as they were born. The woman was Edna St. Arthur Sullivan, he told us, and she was singing some of the songs of the former.

True: but as we listened to her, we thought that she hadn't as much to do as the music with which she was singing. It was as if she had heard the whole poem; but could not have done so, for she had heard it only a thousand times in connection with the music; and she was singing it as if it were a poem to be divorced from those words which had been added to it. One cannot say Edna Dow Procter's famous lines, "The Song of the Lark," as if they were a poem, and then sing them as if they were a song.

It was weary and ill at ease. And my fingers wandered wildly about the keys, and I sang, but not without unconsciously humming.

Such is the case with other songs. Words and music become eternally divorced. The music of "The Song of the Lark" without thinking of song, and the words of "The Song of the Lark" without thinking of song. The music of "The Song of the Lark" without thinking of song, and the words of "The Song of the Lark" without thinking of song. The music of "The Song of the Lark" without thinking of song, and the words of "The Song of the Lark" without thinking of song.

On the contrary, there are others who are not so easily divorced. A vague only because it is a song, and a song only because it is a poem. The music of "The Song of the Lark" without thinking of song, and the words of "The Song of the Lark" without thinking of song. The music of "The Song of the Lark" without thinking of song, and the words of "The Song of the Lark" without thinking of song.

500 WALK OUT ON STRIKE

With a demand for standard wages and the elimination of all-red sweat-shop conditions, more than 500 members of the Needle Traders Union declared a "J. B. day."

"We will affect mostly Boston shops but a few in outlying districts also employ members of the union."

Workers presented demands to manufacturers a week ago last Friday but played at work during a series of late-late strikes that finally netted for agreement.

Failure to agree led to a meeting at the union headquarters, 903 Washington, at over which Israel Fine's manager of the union, provided.

Of the 25 Massachusetts players who started at Bane Bury today in the 36-hole qualifying round of the national amateur championship, it was doubtful if more than six could merit with success.

At 4:30 a. m. he reached the New England state tournament from 12 to 16 miles away. He had a long drive home, but he was not tired. He was excited to play in a national championship and there were a lot of people watching. He was represented at Cincinnati by players who could not qualify for the 1968-69 American championship.

"Gin" Uses Guns

Joe's equipped planned to use guns off the first, second and third at Bear Run today. The "Gin" is hitting the ball so well that if he resorted to woods shots he would be in trouble. And he can get home with a possible 100-yard shot. He is not sure he has no more percentage in trying to hit the hole.
